Drake and the Snowy Day

A Live AI by Genoch story

Tracks in the Snow

Drake looked out of his cave. Snow! Snow covered the ground. Snow was on the rocks. Snow was on the trees.

Then Drake saw something in the snow. A line of tracks! Small tracks. Round tracks. Snail tracks!

"Pip!" said Drake. "Come look at this snail trail!"

Pip ran over. His long scarf dragged in the snow.

"A snail?" said Pip. "A snail made all these tracks?"

"Yes!" said Drake. "A snail went this way. See?"

Pip looked at the snail tracks. Then he looked at Drake. Drake had his big hopeful eyes on.

"We have to follow them," said Drake.

"I knew you would say that," said Pip.

And off they went.

The Snake on the Path

Drake and Pip walked up the hill. The tracks went up and up.

Then Drake saw a snake on a big rock. The snake was long and green. The snake looked at Drake. Drake looked at the snake.

"Did you see who made these tracks?" said Drake.

"I did," said the snake. "A small thing went up that way." The snake gave a nod up the hill.

"Was it a snail?" said Drake.

"It was," said the snake.

"Thank you, snake!" said Drake.

The snake gave a slow wave. Drake and Pip walked on.

"A snake and a snail," said Pip. "This is a very odd day."

Sneaking Up the Hill

"We have to sneak," said Drake. "We must sneak up slow."

Pip held his scarf tight. "I can sneak," he said. "I am good at sneak."

Drake and Pip began to sneak up the hill. One soft step. Then one more.

Then Drake saw a snail on a stone.

The snail looked up. "Sneak!" the snail said, in a tiny whisper. "Go on. Sneak!"

Drake gave a big grin. They did sneak. All the way to the top.

A Snow Dragon for Drake

At the top of the hill, Drake stopped.

Mila stood in the snow. She had a big grin on her face. And next to her, in the snow, was a snow dragon!

"I made it for you!" said Mila. "A snow dragon, just for Drake!"

Drake looked at the snow dragon. It was big. It had snow wings and a snow tail. It looked just like him.

Drake let out a small warm puff. The snow on the dragon began to sparkle and shine.

"It is the best thing I have ever seen," said Drake.

Pip looked at the snow, then at Drake, then at the snow dragon. "Snow dragons," said Pip. "Who knew?"